Transition of Purchase Card Programs to the NSSC Focuses on Last Three Centers

The NSSC Purchase Card Team is now focusing on efforts to transition the last three remaining Centers. Although these transitions will not take effect until January and February of 2018, project activities are ramping up now to ensure the team remains successful.

The month of November will involve members of the NSSC Purchase Card Team traveling to Glenn Research Center the week of November 13th. They will host four Town Hall Meetings with GRC’s cardholders and approving officials as well as meet with the present GRC P-Card Coordinators and other key members who have a high volume of p-card usage. GRC’s transition will be effective January 2, 2018.

That site visit will be followed by a trip to Langley Research Center the last week in November to finalize the LaRC transition. The NSSC P-Card Team will again host four Town Hall Meetings with the LaRC cardholders and approving officials. LaRC partially transitioned their P-Card Program to the NSSC on August 29, 2016, whereby the NSSC P-Card Team assumed monthly monitoring of transactions, reporting and auditing. The LaRC P-Card Program will fully transition to the NSSC on January 1, 2018.

On the distant horizon, the team will also focus on the final transition which is for Ames Research Center’s P-Card Program. A site visit to ARC is planned for January 8, 2018, with go-live slated for February 1, 2018.

TIS THE Season TO BE thankful

Looking for a laugh?
Ask someone you know how long you should microwave a 25 lb. turkey
for Thanksgiving dinner.
Enjoy!

Are you a good cook 😊
I think I'm a pretty good cook.
What's up
How long should I microwave a 25 lb turkey
HAHAHAHAHAHAHAHA
you can't be serious

You do know how big a 25 lb turkey is right? What are you going to sit it in? When do you need it
I was planning to cut it in half and do one half at a time
When does it need to be done?
If cutting in half (which won't be easy) why didn't you just get turkey breast

Do not microwave it. Nothing good will come of that.
